The event is intended to gather the community, which is invited to bring an umbrella and eat in the neighborhood park in the morning and afternoon. The event is sponsored by the Jefferson Park Chamber of Commerce, which provides a picnic table and covers the area where the barbecue is held, according to chamber president John Sherwin. Sherwin said that the chamber was recently awarded a project to provide children with a learning tool for reading in the classroom that will provide similar content to a children's book. "We're really excited about this," Sherwin said. "We're putting together an educational approach that is interactive." The plan is to provide a reading and math game for children in kindergarten
