The group included four Democrats, including Heidi Heitkamp, Cory Booker and Kamala Harris. The senators' statement said the bill could be voted on as early as Wednesday and that the group urged other Republican senators to oppose any effort to delay a vote. The statement was the latest signal of movement on a bill that has been stalled in the Senate since January. The group does not include President Donald Trump or Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell, both of whom have said they will not take up the bill. "We call on the Senate to act with courage and heart on the dreamers and their families, the forgotten men and women who have been living in
